MENTAL HEALTH AIDED BY SPECIAL TRAINING OF POLICEMEN

Day in and out, who sees the largest numbers of people with mental and emotional problems?

Professional help for most people comes from general and psychiatric physicians, psychologists, social workers, nurses, clergymen, and various kinds of counselors, such as marital counselors.

Often overlooked is another kind of person who deals with millions of the mentally troubled day in and out and around the clock.

This is the policeman.

As much criticized as praised these days, the policeman is nevertheless extremely important in the fight against mental illness. He can be an invaluable aid to the mental health professional team.

This is being proved in experimental programs of special training in mental health problems for policemen.

"Police Talk Youth Off Bridge To Safety" . . . "Police Fear For Wife, Children Held Hostage By Husband" . . . "Police Called in Apartment Row."

Headlines like these highlight dramatic police confrontations with the mentally ill. But the vast majority of cases in which the policeman daily contacts emotionally disturbed persons go unreported.

About 90 percent of the calls for police service, it is estimated, are from citizens who need help with problems of everyday living or with behavior difficulties which do not involve violations of criminal laws.

Sometimes, however, these problems, say in a family quarrel, explode into a major tragedy—physical assault and injury or even death.

To help policemen prevent incidents from developing further and to make them better able to recognize and cope with emotionally disturbed persons, programs are underway through Institute experimental training and community mental health center grants designed to increase mental health manpower.

Supported as part of a community mental health center staffing grant from NIMH, one such program, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, shows an encouraging beginning.

It provides policemen with four training sessions of two hours each. Different aspects of mental illness are covered and experiences in managing disturbed persons are discussed.

The program emphasizes development of skills which can be applied practically to on-the-street situations. Its goal is to make it easier for police officers to recognize and handle disturbed people, to understand their own feelings about these people, and to spot problems that need professional help.

Aid Available For Crippled Children

It is not an easy thing to face up to an illness, accident, or birth defect, but it is an even more difficult thing to do when one of these conditions leaves you permanently or partially disabled — particularly for the young. Thousands of Texas children would face bleak futures without hope of ever achieving full physical sufficiency if it were not for a program operated by the Texas State Department of Health.

Any child under twenty-one years of age whose physical functions are impaired by a bone, joint, or muscle defect or deformity is eligible for assistance by the Division of Crippled Children's Services. The law only requires that a physician practicing under the laws of the State of Texas must have examined the child and recommended treatment, and the county judge of the county of the child's residence must certify that the parents cannot finance the needed care and treatment.

million dollars in funds for the Crippled Children's Program. The State Health Department handled some 14,619 cases last year. The number of cases treated is increasing at the rate of five percent a year.

The program will pay the costs associated with medical and surgical care, hospitalization, special nursing, and transportation to and from treatment centers for the crippled child and his parents. The program will also furnish eligible patients with wheel chairs, braces, artificial limbs, crutches, special medication and related services, including assistance to the family in plans for management and care of the child.

Early diagnosis and treatment are vitally important — especially with such diseases as cystic fibrosis. If untreated, one-half of the children with the disease may die before reaching twelve years of age.

Assistance under the State program is obtained by applying to the Division of Crippled Children's Services, Texas State Department of Health, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, or by placing an application through an established city or county health unit. Cases may also be referred by private physicians or other state and local agencies.

A City-School Auditorium? . . .

A letter from the valedictorian of this 1970 YHS senior class, Monty Humble, has suggested the need for an auditorium on the Yoe Campus.

He pointed up a need because of cramped quarters and their effect on a one-act play being put on in another school building, lacking a suitable auditorium.

The suggestion has merit. School officials have noted the need for an auditorium and cafeteria since the combining of all Cameron Independent School District facilities.

He suggested further some kind of combination funding program of city and school to achieve construction of an auditorium facility for both city and school use.

The idea, sometime now discussed by school officials because of need, and developed by one spokesman of Cameron students, has merit.

Other combination efforts of city, state and federal financing have done much for Cameron and Milam County. Perhaps a way can be found to achieve such a proposal, when the need is pressing for classroom and auditorium space.

That would be up to the leadership of CISD school board and City Council.

Evermore, We Shall Try . . .

One positive effect of knowing one's errors in the newspaper is learning how many people read you and knowing what delight people take in faulting you.

Another positive effect is realizing that a newspaper is as imperfect as any other institution and is a partner in working toward perfection.

Whenever the question arises, we play a little numbers game.

Each full page of stories, without ads, has about 5,000 words on it. Each word averages 6 or 7 letters. Hundreds, if not thousands of punctuation marks and numerals are on each page. Consider the possibilities for error.

It is always a delight to find how much better our readers read proof than we. We learn this way.

The venerable J. B. White once produced a "Daily Mid-get", a newspaper "about the size of a man's handkerchief", it is often described.

Legend has it Mr. White undertook one time, with an issue of that size, usually four pages, to produce an errorless edition. Proofs, page proofs and press proofs were read by staff members for total elimination of error.

But, alas, the edition that went on the street contained a typographical error or so.

If Mr. White, venerable editor he was, couldn't do the impossible with four pages of type the size of "a man's handkerchief", the present staff must admit inability to accomplish perfection with an average of 20 pages per week, each page much larger than a "man's handkerchief."

Evermore, we shall try.

NUMBER 9 DEATH TAXES—FEDERAL AND STATE FEDERAL TAXES

When first enacted in 1916, the federal estate tax affected only families of great wealth. Since that time it has grown until it is now the most formidable claim against many estates.

The federal government approves, indeed encourages, proper tax planning and rewards with substantial savings those who act to minimize the tax. We all face income taxes annually; but estate taxes are faced after death by somebody else — a time everyone tends to regard as too remote for present consideration.

WHAT IS THE GROSS ESTATE?

The federal estate tax is imation. The rates start at 3 per cent for the next $5,000, and may be as high as 77 per cent for very large estates. Moderate estates, such as the estate between $100,000 and $250,000, are taxed at about 30 per cent.

DEDUCTIONS

Funeral expenses, accountant's fees, attorney's fees, costs of property management, claims and debts against the estate, and so on may be deducted from the gross estate.

PAYING THE TAX

As a general rule, the estate tax must be paid in cash 15 months after the date of death. Under certain circumstances, the estate may obtain an extension of time within which to pay it.

The Internal Revenue Service can allow up to 10 years to pay the tax with 4 per cent interest if "hardship" would result from paying the tax in a single payment. In addition, a similar 10-year installment payment is available if part of the estate includes an interest in a business with a few stockholders.

TEXAS TAXES

The Texas inheritance tax was enacted in 1907 and has not changed much since then. The rates are low and seldom is the tax a large liability.

The state government, like the federal government, encourages proper inheritance tax planning, and with a little planning the inheritance can be avoided altogether.

posed upon the decedent's property which is transferred to his beneficiaries. The tax is based on the fair market value of the estate at the time of death or, at the option of the taxpayer, the value one year from the date of death.

The taxable estate includes insurance on the decedent's life in which he possessed any "incident" of ownership at the time of his death, and includes many things besides the property owned outright by the decedent (such as real estate, stocks, bonds, cash, and personal effects.)

It may even include property transferred by the owner during his life but in which he retained certain rights, the decedent's interest in property owned by him and others as joint tenants with rights of survivorship and certain property which the decedent held the right to direct the disposition of.

TAX RATES

The federal estate tax is a progressive tax much like the income tax. The rates increase with the value of the estate. The first $60,000 of an estate is exempt from tax-

SENIORS HONORED

The Methodist church honored the Methodist senior and 8th grade graduates Sunday noon at their monthly Congregational dinner.

Pat Jekel, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jekel of Cameron, was recently named Valedictorian of the 1970 Senior Class of Henrietta M. King High School in Kingsville, Texas. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Jekel.

In addition to this high honor, Pat has been a member of the National Honor Society and more recently has been chosen to Who's Who of her high school. Pat also received this month a Major "K" Award, an award given to outstanding King High School seniors. She is a recipient of three scholarships — the Bluebonnet Drama Club Scholarship, the Valedictorian Scholarship, and the Texas A & I University General Freshman Scholarship.

Pat will attend Texas A&M University this summer and will return to Kingsville this September for enrollment at Texas A & I University. Her present plans are to become a Registered Pharmacist.

Club Will Auction Cakes Pies

Pies and cakes will go on the sale block at 3:30 p.m., Tuesday when Cameron Baptist Club members open their "Bakery Auction" benefiting the St. Edward Hospital Development Fund.

John S. Batte will be auctioneer for the public sale in the garden of Miss Mildred Thornton's home, 508 E. 8th.

"It will be informal and strictly fun," said Mrs. A. W. McCullin, Sr., Delphian Club President. "We hope people will come, whether or not they intend to bid on a cake or pie, because a crowd adds to the excitement of an auction."

Proceeds from the sale Tuesday will be given to the St. Edward Hospital Auxiliary to be used towards the Auxiliary pledge of $10,000 to the hospital Development Fund.

Local Men Due FFA Awards

Two local businessmen will receive recognition for their contributions to the Future Farmers of America program at the annual FFA awards banquet in August.

Fuchs will receive the Area III FFA Honorary Membership. Gene Smitherman, partner-manager of radio station KML in Cameron, will receive the Agricultural News Recognition award at the August banquet.

The award will be presented for the station's contribution to agriculture, the youth organizations, and agri-business.

It will be a dream come true Monday night for the parents of nine children whose shared desire was to see all of their children graduate from high school.

Randolph, better known as Randy, will get his high school diploma, the last of the children to do so, and all from Rogers school.

Juanita graduated in 1948, Frank Jr. in 1950, Aurelio in 1952, Theresa in 1955, Mary in 1958, Pete in 1961, Charles in 1963 and Steve in 1964.

When the dream was so clearly in sight the Castillo family wanted to show their appreciation to the Rogers public school faculty for all they had done for their family.

The Castillo's honored the entire faculty, along with husbands and wives with a dinner Tuesday night in the cafeteria.

Steve represented the family in expressing appreciation to the faculty for "all you have put up with and all you have done for our family through the years."

School Superintendent B. F. Harbour, representing the faculty, expressed appreciation for such thoughtfulness from the Castillo family and said "in all of my experiences this is the first time a family has so graciously expressed their appreciation to the faculty."

170 Is Top Number For June Draft

The June draft call for Texas is 801, and no man will be selected and ordered for induction with a random sequence number higher than 170, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Tuesday.

The June quota is down from 834 in May, which is being filled with men having random sequence numbers no higher than 145.

The state quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in June is 2,320, down from 5,828 in May. Men sent for these examinations will be limited to those with random sequence numbers 1 through 215. Deferred or exempt men, such as teachers, college students, and vocational or trade school students, with random sequence numbers 1 through 215, may be forwarded for these examinations if they are likely to lose their deferred or exempt status during the next six months, Colonel Schwartz said.

No men with random sequence numbers above 215 will be forwarded for examination until further notice. Men born in 1951, who have no random sequence numbers, will not be called for this purpose. A drawing will be held later this year to establish the numbers for the 1951 group.

All volunteers at the draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for induction by random sequence number.

The Texas induction quota of 801 for June is the state's share of a national call for 15,000 men, all for the army.

Know How Pasture Grass Grows

Pasture management requires knowledge of grass, how grass grows and the needs of the grass. Landowners that do the best job of managing their pastures, understand the process of grass growth.

The purpose of properly grazing the grass must be understood if the management is to be successful.

Grass is very much like any living being. Grass must have air, sunlight and moisture in order to grow.

When too much top growth is removed from a grass plant, the entire manufacturing process becomes very slow. When sufficient top growth is left to support the root system a rapid recovery and growth can be obtained.

The purpose of proper management of pasture grasses is to prolong the life of the desired grass, maintain and improve the quality and quantity of forage, provide soil protection and reduce water loss.

Information on proper heights of grazing and management of your pastures is available through your local Soil Conservation Service and District programs.

Preparing For That First Job Interview

With summer approaching, the thoughts of college and high school seniors are turning to jobs. Whether it's the beginning of a career or summer employment, the first step is that first job interview.

As important as your background is your appearance, for the first impression you make in an interview is often a lasting one. Before scheduling an interview, give yourself an image test: Are you well groomed? Is your complexion clear? Are you tastefully dressed? Are your nails and hair neat and clean?

Approaching your job interview with high grades in your appearance will give you—and your prospective employer—confidence in yourself.

Start off for your interview with a relaxed and healthy glow by beginning your interview day with an unhurried bath or shower. You'll be sure you're fresh and clean all day by sudsing with an antibacterial soap.

Advance planning for your interview should include your resume, neatly typed and listing your educational background. Part-time or after-school jobs and extracurricular responsibilities should be listed too.

It's wise to include the names, addresses, and phone numbers of three or four references—teachers, part-time employers, others who know you. It's to your advantage, too, to check with your references in advance, asking permission to list them on your resume.

Ready? Meet your prospective employer with a smile, answer questions honestly, and feel free to ask questions yourself so that you have a clear picture of job responsibilities.

And, if that first interview isn't the job for you, go on confidently to the next.

First Rule In Arranging Furniture

Before you rearrange your furniture, be sure you will not be sacrificing convenience or use of space, says Mrs. Jane Berry, Texas A&M University housing and home furnishings specialist.

There may be only one way to arrange it for the best use of the space you have.

Furniture arrangement need not follow a set pattern. Livability is the first and final rule. Think of the needs of different members of your family in each room as you plan a workable arrangement of your furniture.

Arrange the living room furniture so that comfortable seating and adequate lighting are provided for each member. Think in terms of groups that are usable and convenient, and not in terms of individual pieces.

Mrs. Berry suggests these guides for good furniture arrangement:

1. Keep traffic lanes open.

2. Place large pieces first, parallel to the lines of the room.

3. Balance the pieces in a group and each group on each side of the room.

4. Accent a center of interest.

5. Locate a good light in the proper place for each conversation group.

6. Plan an interesting and attractive group at the spot first seen as you enter the room.

Pick Right Lumber For Home

AUSTIN Most housewives will rely on products that bear a "seal of approval" from a testing laboratory, but many men and women will buy blindly when making the most important purchase of their life: buying a home.

"The length of life of a house depends to a large extent on the lumber that makes up the framing of the structure," said Joe Butler, executive vice president of the Lumbermen's Association of Texas warns home buyers.

"When you buy or build a home, make certain that the lumber used is grade-marked and the proper grades are used in the various components."

The average person does not know the meaning of the grade stamps used by the various species associations and should check with their local lumber dealer to make certain they are getting the right product for the use to which it is to be put.

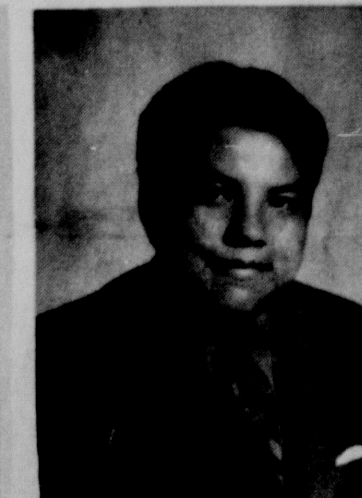

Purposeful Beaks Most shore birds have long, slender beaks, so they can dig for their food. But the Shoveler-type ducks have flattened beaks so they can scoop up their food from the mud.

New Rules Expected To Swell Home Ownership

AUSTIN
New F.H.A. regulations governing insured loans on mobile homes are expected to make home ownership easier for millions of Americans, according to a report in a national mobile home trade publication by John A. Reidelbach, special housing adviser to Mobile Home/Recreational Vehicle Dealer magazine.

Carried under the Title I Section, insured loans may be made only for financing new mobile homes, or for financing the purchase of a used unit which was originally financed by an FHA insured loan. The minimum size shall be at least 40 feet long and ten feet wide.

Insured loans will only be made to borrowers who satisfactorily establish that purchase is for use and occupancy as a principal residence. A principal residence means the place where a borrower expects to live at least nine months of the year.

The mobile home unit shall be designed and constructed so as to insure adequate durability and livability. This requirement may be satisfied by compliance with American National Standards Institute mobile home standard A-119.1. Certifications of compliance with ANSI shall be furnished by the manufacturer, or other proof of adequacy must be provided.

Mobile homes may either be located in a park approved by FHA, or on a site owned by the borrower. An eligible park shall meet minimum standards for sanitation, site or lot location, vehicular access, landscaping and such other requirements considered conducive to an adequate environment.

When placed on the borrower's site:
1) The lot size shall not be less than one-fourth acre, unless it is serviced by approved, central sewerage and water systems.

2) Certification must be obtained from local officials that site has adequate sanitary facilities and is in conformance with applicable sanitary codes of the jurisdiction where it is to be located.

3) Certification must be furnished that current zoning of the site does not preclude placement of mobile homes.

To be an eligible borrower, a credit report must clearly show that the applicant is solvent and with reasonable ability to pay the obligation, and in all other respects, a reasonable risk.

Mobile home loans may not exceed the lesser of $10,000 or 115 percent of the total price as stated in the manufacturer's invoice. (The manufacturer's invoice is defined by FHA as the true wholesale price of the unit including furnishings, equipment and accessories.) If the total loan proceeds do not exceed $10,000, the additional charges may be made.

A minimum cash down payment of at least five percent of the first $6,000 plus ten percent of any excess of $6,000 of the total cost of the mobile home is required. (The total cost excludes charges and fees such as taxes, transportation and installation.)

The annual financing charge permitted for interest discount and fees of all kinds varies from 7.97 percent to 10.57 percent depending on amount and term of loan.

The term of the loan shall not be for less than one year or for more than 12 years and 32 days from the date it is made.

Take the 'Ouch' Out of Spring

If you're having a busy Spring, chances are you're heading for summer with some of those early season aches and pains. It isn't surprising considering all the Springtime chores you've been cramming in, after a long, pent-up winter.

Perhaps you've been gardening. Or maybe you had to get the patio furniture in condition; even worse, you may have had to paint it. Then so it wouldn't look like last year's furniture you rearranged it several times. That meant moving it around a lot.

Since guilt won't allow most of us to watch Dad struggle with the mower without at least a corresponding effort, you probably cleaned house and changed all the slip covers and drapes.

While Dad cleaned out the garage, you cleaned out the attic or basement. While the kids clamored to go swimming on the first sunny day, both you and Dad decided it was time to "shape-up" for swimsuits. So you both launched into a regime of toning-up exercises. Right?

Now the house and patio look great, the garden is a blaze of glory and the children are getting more lively with every strengthening ray of sun. You and Dad, however, feel like a winter landscape—stripped of spirit and beset by stiff, sore limbs.

According to many physicians, this aching stiffness is a common—and happily, temporary—complaint. It can be eased by taking two aspirin followed by a warm, relaxing bath.

In fact, a recent magazine calls aspirin "The Wonder Drug Nobody Understands," and goes on to say, "It cures nothing: But it reduces fever, alleviates pain, combats inflammation and is, in general, our most versatile medicine."

To keep free of aches and pains throughout the action-packed summer months:

Walk as often as possible. Do stretching and bending exercises on a regular basis, morning and night. Participate regularly in a sport you enjoy: tennis, golf, swimming, fishing, and even running or mountain climbing are excellent if done in moderation.

Start slowly and build up. Never try to master an exercise or sport in "three easy lessons." Most importantly, try to maintain a regular regime, even through the fall and winter months. Then when the warm months roll around, you'll find a spring in your step. And summer's aches and pains will be things of the past.

You Don't Say . . .

QUIESCENT
if you are referring to "inclined to yield or assent, compliant."

ACQUIESCENT (AK we ESS unt) is the word you wish for this meaning.

QUIESCENT (kwy ESS unt) means "being in a state of repose or inaction. Resting free from anxiety, emotion, or agitation."

Fortunately the distinct difference in pronunciation of the QUI in these two words will serve to remind the speaker as to which word he wishes for what meaning. Copr. by Adria Allen

Six Flags Now Open All Week

SIX FLAGS Over Texas begins its summer season, with daily operation, this weekend.
Beginning Saturday, May 23, the popular theme park located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth will be open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. seven days a week through Labor Day.

The full operation comes on the heels of a record-breaking spring season. Single-day attendance records have been broken the past two Saturdays.

On May 9, a total of 30,180 persons visited the park, setting a record which lasted only one week.

On May 16, the turnstiles registered 34,381. That same day a total of more than 380,000 individual rides were given for an average of better than eleven rides per guest.

Beginning Monday, May 25,
SIX FLAGS' feature attraction or 1970, "Los Voladores - The Flying Indians Spectacular," will be expanded.

The cast will increase from five persons to twenty-three, and an elaborately costumed "Aztec sacrifice" will be added to the performance.

The colorful troupe from Acapulco will be seen at SIX FLAGS through Labor Day. After that date the park will return to weekend-only operation until the season's end November 29.

TPEA Hears Barnes

LI. Governor Ben Barnes
speaking at the Annual Texas Public Employees Chapter Presidents' Meeting on May 18 in Austin emphasized foreseeable problems for the 1970's and stated that the talents of today's youth will be an important factor in dealing with them.

Rep. Harold Davis, representing Speaker of the House Gus Mutscher whose absence was necessitated by an emergency, also addressed the meeting. He told the State employees that "by working through legislative bodies, such as the Texas Legislature, you can become a part of the solution to our problems rather than a part of our problem. . . ."

"With every privilege comes a corresponding responsibility.
State employees have accepted
this responsibility."

In attendance at the day - long meeting and workshops were three hundred chapter presidents, membership committee chairmen, and Public Relations Committee chairmen from all over the State, along with State-level TPEA officers and legislators.

Donald J. Frye, TPEA President, introduced the featured speaker for the morning session, Henry Rothell, Associate Administrator of the Texas Employment Commission, who reminded the delegates of the accomplishments of TPEA.

Rothell pointed out that State employment in Texas has a turnover rate of 26.48 % costing the State $19 million per year.

In explaining these figures, Rothell attributed them to the competitiveness of industrial salaries and said that, "the State is acting as a training agency for private industry at a cost too expensive to allow."

During the morning session, the members attended workshops dealing with public relations, legislation, membership, chapter organization and insurance.
